DAIRY OR INDUSTRY -- Both! Here is a shot of the 7,200 - foot "milk parlor" under construction on the J. K. Stuart Dairy Farm northwest of Cameron. Workmen have built concrete and tile walls on the west side of the building since this picture. The structure will house office and facilities for the new Florida dairy firm, also Jersey stock breeders. Automatic equipment will feed and milk 100 cows in three and one-half hours. About six people will be empolyed in the new operation.

Dairying Developing

A Staff Feature
ONE OF A SERIES

Construction of Stuart Dairy farm northwest of Cameron, has turned a Milam trend into a movement.

The new operation is perhaps the 12th Milam dairy farm. It joins with about 10 others already producing milk from herds of 21 to 53 cows.

Dairying at one time was even a more hazardous, competitive field. But new methods and financing through FHA Agencies have brought a new interest in dairying in Milam and Central Texas.

Dairymen now sell their milk to a certain area at a steady price. Most milk from the Milam area goes into the Houston Milk Shed.

Refrigerated tank trucks pick up the milk at the farms and transport it to processing plants in the particular market. It returns to the consumer in various forms of dairy products.

DAIRYMEN ORGANIZE

As a mark of the dairy industry's development, seventeen dairymen have joined in a Heart Of Texas Dairy Herd Improvement Association, about half of them from Milam County.

The organization maintains the milk testing office in Cameron that checks out milk samples and production through IBM operations in Georgia.

So it is certain that dairymen in this area are forging a strong Milam link in the expanding chain of Texas dairying.

What is bringing this new emphasis to dairying in Central Texas? Why is Milam, among other Cen- Tex counties, turning to dairying? How do these dairies operate?

These are the questions the Herald asked dairymen, agriculture leaders and businessmen.

This series presumes to give some of the answers.

The main line of questions went to W. H. Gaston, recently promoted to State FHA operating loan officer. He fielded the main one with confidence.

ABOUT INCOME

Can a small dairyman make a good living?

GASTON: Yes. Records show that dairymen who really work can earn from $4,000 to $7,000 a year, depending on how well they manage and how hard they want to work.

With that, it was apparent that dairying would be of real interest to a hard - working small farmer whose income was marginal on traditional crops. It was a bold contrast to the below $2,000 average shown by Dept. of Agriculture figures for the average Milam family.

How about the Milam location?

G. F. DUNSTON, manager of the Stuart dairy now going up, answered that one: We chose this area because of the friendly people, the available land and a location within a reasonable distance to the Houston market. We'll sell milk there.

The Stuart dairy, with one 7,200 square - foot structure well underway, and three or four more buildings of smaller size due, must be convinced of the location advantage.

COMPATIBLE INDUSTRY

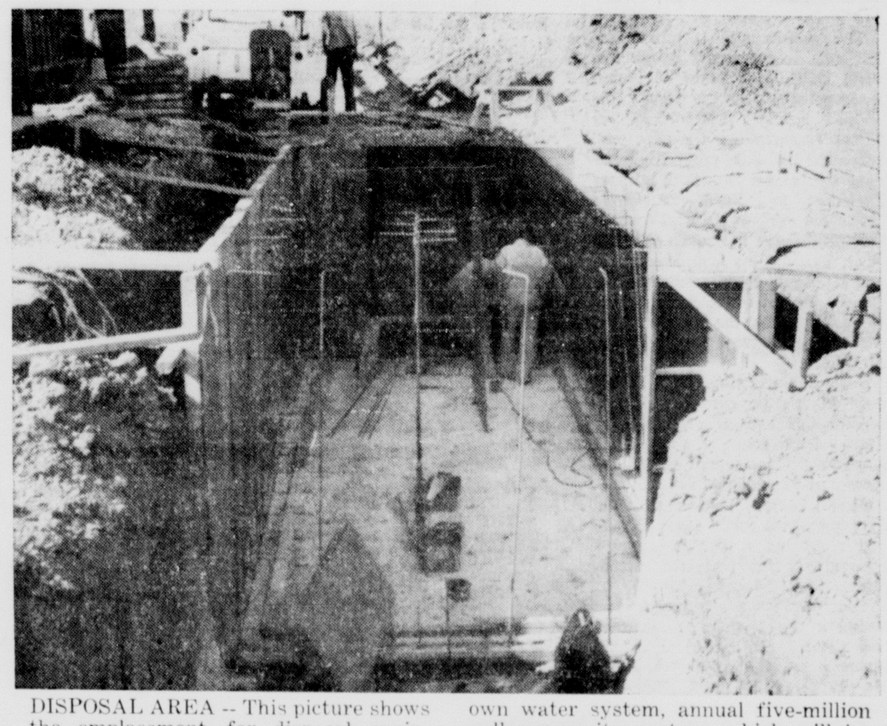
There are more obvious advantages, ones that apply to the basic livestock, cotton and grain industries as well.

Milam County has grazing land potential already being used by the 60,000 - head livestock industry. The needs of dairying are similar: Grazing land, growth of feeds and room, lots of it.

Then there is the stream action. With water flowing by almost everyone's property, dairying and livestock should be ideal, barring drouth. Milam can count three rivers and more than a half a dozen creeks for surface water. If that is not enough, wells can produce water, particularly in East Milam Conuty.

Those are some of the natural attractions to dairying as well as livestock, which now ranks in the top ten in Texas. Thirty years ago, it was a different story.

How does an individual dairy operate? How does it get started? Good questions; And they are the subjects of this series next week.



DISPOSAL AREA -- This picture shows the emplacement for disposal equipment to the new milk parlor. About 100 cows will be milked twice daily when the operation begins in about 15 days. The Stuart operation also will have its own water system, annual five-million gallon capacity system, which will include a chlorinator, filtering system and 10,000-gallon storage tank. Other buildings for calves and bulls will be built at dairy site.

By FML

The Herald is presumptious once again ..... and with this issue begins a study of the dairying industry in Milam County.

Timing of the lead story of this series was no accident. Cameron is heir to one of the unique dairying operations in Texas, and in part, the United States.

So we have timed our inquiry with the construction of the J. K. Stuart dairy - stock breeding farm, actually an industry itself.

This is one of the questions before us ..... Is dairying only of importance in agriculture? Perhaps the story provokes some estimate of dairying's value as an employer too.

The Cameron Rotary Club adopted the crew of the lend - lease destroyer, Cameron, about 1940 before the United States entered World War II.

Dr. C. G. Swift told the story of how Cameron Rotarians sent several barrels of candy, food and cigarets to the British crew early in the war. He displayed the 20-pound bronze crest of the Cameron, which was sunk by the British to keep her crippled hulk from falling into the hands of the Germans.

In describing highlights of Cameron Rotary's 24 - year history, Dr. Swift asked Bill Burns, Rotary president in 1950, to tell of the ceremonies in Cameron in which a British naval captian, a U. S. Navy captain participated in the presentation of the bronze plate to the Cameron Rotary Club. The decommissioning ceremony was held in YHS Stadium before a large crowd.

Dr. Swift also said Cameron Rotary had a band, baseball team and had heard speakers ranging from a vice - president of Rotary International, Gov. Beauford Jester and numerous speakers of note.

Screwworm Drive Gaining Support

A county - wide effort to combat screwworm fly and brucellosis is making progress.

Seven Communities in Milam County, including Cameron, have contributed $3,101, according to Drive Chairman John S. Batte.

The program was introduced in a meeting held recently by the Milam Farm Bureau. Bob Lilly legislative director of the Texas Farm Bureau, Austin, described the importance of the clean - up program in Milam's livestock industry.

Six other meetings followed in Milam communities. And contributions began mounting toward a $4,000 goal.

COMMUNITY CHAIRMAN

Community chairmen were elected in Gause, Buckholts, Baileyville, Rockdale, Thorndale and Milano following discussions on combatting screwworm and brucellosis.

Batte and County Agent J. D. Moore conducted the community meetings.

Batte said that livestock owners also signed a petition to hold a hearing in the county, setting up the brucellosis program.

Donated thus far in the campaign: Gause, Brown Ely, chairman -- $567; Buckholts, Calvin Shenker, chairman -- $354; Baileyville, Dowell Hailey, chairman -- $345; Rockdale, H. L. Fieseler, chairman -- $619; Thorndale, Ervin Fuessel, chairman -- $242; Milano, Joe Martin, chairman -- $97; and Cameron, John S. Batte, chairman -- $877.

1963 CONTROL DATE

Officials said it is hoped the screwworm can be controlled by 1963. Screwworms cause millions of dollars in losses yearly in Texas.

It has been eliminated in Florida for the past three years and can be eliminated in Texas, officials emphasized.

Milam County stockmen are urged to make their voluntary contribution to the chairman in their community, Batte said.

Treasurer of the drive is Bill Arthur.

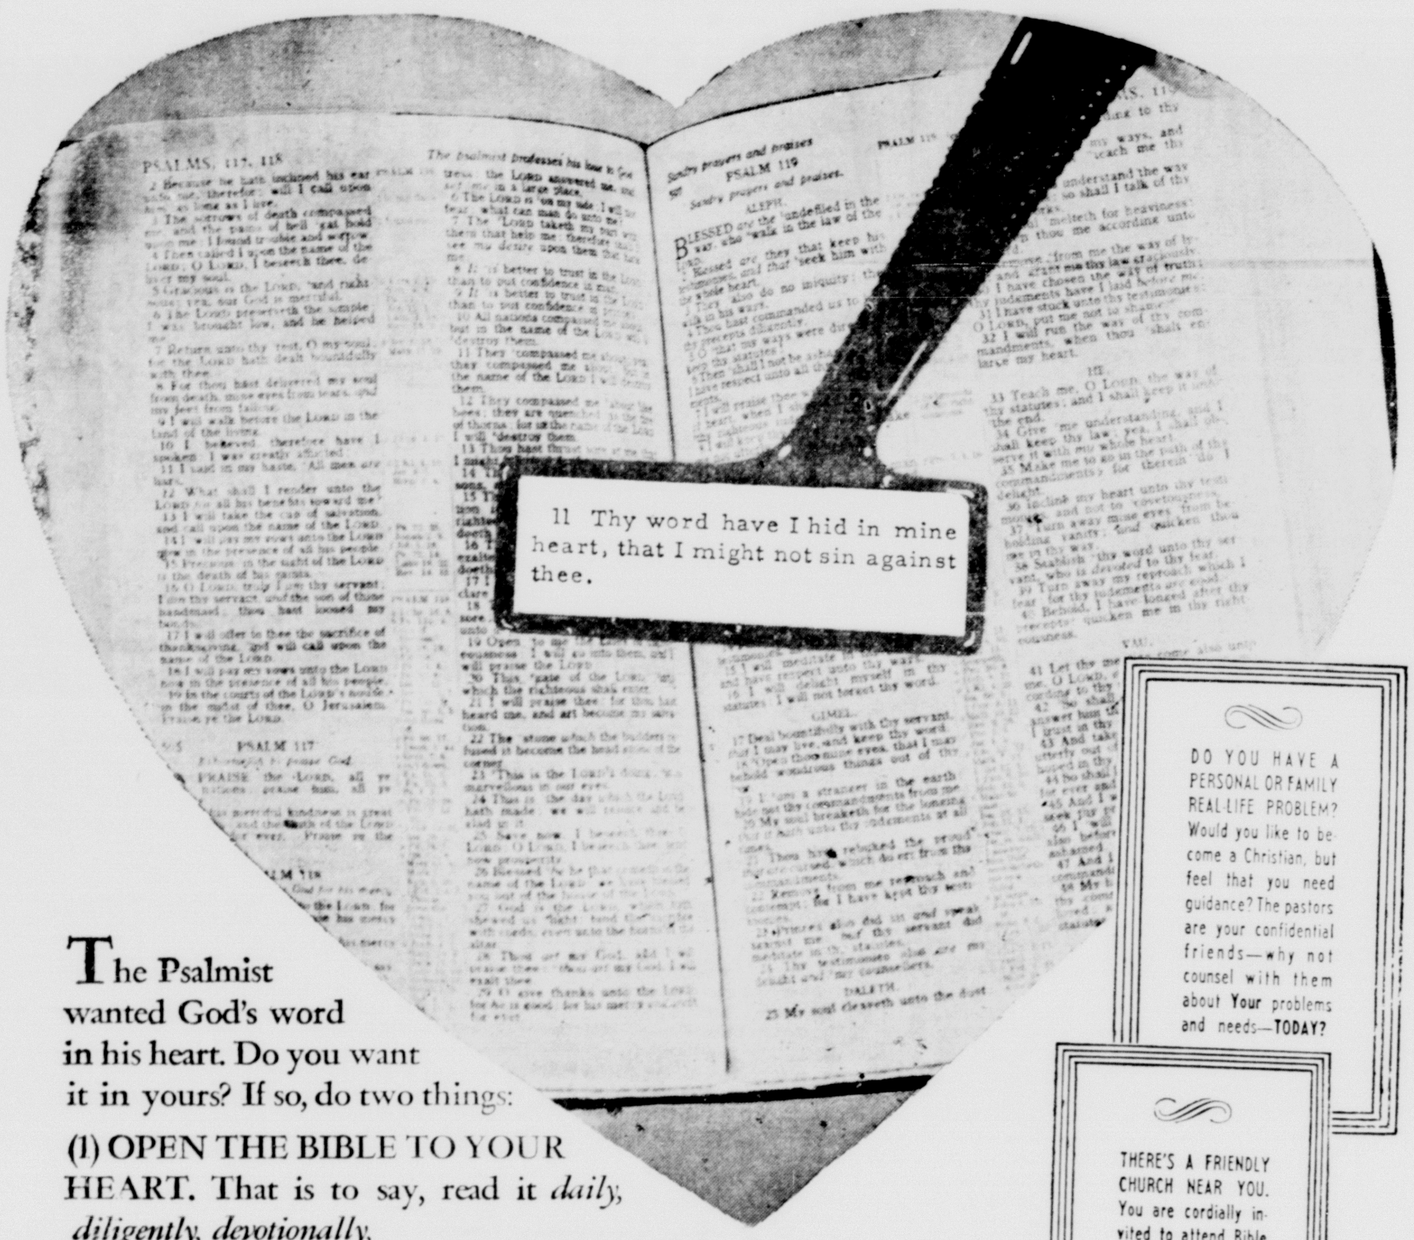
Is the Bible in Your Heart?



The Psalmist wanted God's word in his heart. Do you want it in yours? If so, do two things:

(1) OPEN THE BIBLE TO YOUR HEART. That is to say, read it daily, diligently, devotionally,

(2) OPEN YOUR HEART TO THE BIBLE— and that means, believe it, truly; receive it, sincerely; follow it, humbly. It will transform you.

At church on the Lord's day, and at other times, you will find other people, young and old, who, too, are anxious that the Bible, God's Holy Word, shall be "hid in their hearts" that it may be the guide for their lives. Thus you will find fellowship to inspire you to constant noble Living and service to humanity in the name of the Lord.

DO YOU HAVE A PERSONAL OR FAMILY REAL-LIFE PROBLEM? Would you like to become a Christian, but feel that you need guidance? The pastors are your confidential friends—why not counsel with them about Your problems and needs—TODAY?

THERE'S A FRIENDLY CHURCH NEAR YOU. You are cordially invited to attend Bible studies, Worship Services, Business and Social Hours. Make your life complete by finding a church home. Do it now!

Tax Answer On Child Dependency

Even though your child earned $600 or more last year, you as a parent, may be able to claim him as a descendent in that 1961 federal income tax return.

This good news came today from A. P. Andrews, Administrative Office of Internal Revenue Service, Temple.

"If you have supplied more than half of his support, you may claim an exemption for him regardless of the amount he earned, providing he hadn't reached his 19th birthday by January 1, 1962.

"When the child is 19 or over, you still may claim an exemption for him if he was a full - time student during some part of each of five calendar months in 1961, and if you meet the support test. A full - time student is one who is enrolled for the number of hours which is considered to be full - time attendance."

Murray-Go-Round

THAT, JOE, was no sonic boom.

Sanctimonious snapping of heads among baseball's braid brought a thunder clap when some bloke suggested that perhaps, after all, the old game of Rounders was no longer our national pastime.

Frantic Frank Lane, man with a personality so bad several people pay him not to run their ball clubs, is apparently the self - appointed chief of diamond squealers.

"Professional football," Lane says of the immensely popular Sunday TV sport, "is a flash in the pan." So there.

That retort has approximately the same credulence as one by an important US official in 1947 that the Chinese Communists were harmless Oriental farmers hoping for a handout.

When Organized Baseball moguls realize professional football intends to devour them, perhaps somebody will think of pevitalizing the archaic old sport and competing for the fan's fast - shrinking buck.

Don't knock that space - age ball yard those millionaire amateurs used to get Houston, and Texas, into baseball's major league.

Judge Roy Hofheinz and Oilman Craig Cullinan may not, as sophisticated New Yorkers imply, know the correct direction a batter should take after rapping the ball.

This shrewd pair, however, are going to sob all the way to the bank, ala that golden - locked pianist your wife liked. After all, they've got the first dyed - in - the - wool change in Organized Baseball's 125-year old sea of hohumness.

If Junior Balks At Breakfast Serve These "Space" Specials

Worried at the way youngsters turn down breakfast? Try space strategy, and watch young astronauts go into eating orbit! Make a rocketship with ready-to-eat cereal, banana for rocket body and tail fins, and a sprinkle of quick strawberry-flavored mix for "space-dust." Quick strawberry-flavored mix is that handy product that makes strawberry milk by merely stirring in the mix with a spoon.

Space-minded youngsters will flip at flying saucers that are easy-to-make pink pancakes. For the astronautess, there's space queen cereal, which is oatmeal with a rosy hue, complete with miniature marshmallow features and a crown of wispy, ready-to-eat cereal.

Rocketship

Put favorite ready-to-eat cereal in oval bowl. Sprinkle with quick strawberry-flavored mix. Slice banana in half lengthwise, centering one slice lengthwise over cereal; halve remaining slice and arrange as V-shape tail fins at end of bowl. Serve with milk.

Space Queen

Prepare rolled oats according to package directions, adding ¼ cup quick strawberry-flavored mix with each 1 cup rolled oats. Put cereal in round bowl. Place shredded ready-to-eat cereal half way around edge of bowl for "hair." Use miniature marshmallows for features. Serve with milk.

Flying Saucers

To recipe on box of your favorite pancake mix, add ¼ cup quick strawberry-flavored mix and 1 teaspoon lemon juice for each 1 cup pancake mix. Cook as directed. Serve with butter and syrup.

Countians Buy 4,307 Poll Taxes

Milam Countians bought 4,307 poll taxes before the January 31 deadline, topping the previous year's total by about 900 paid.

Cameron city poll taxes totaled about 780, approaching the average of previous years.

It meant that registration hit a peak in the final week of January. Prior to that, officials of both city and county expected near record low registration.

We congratulate Milam Countians in their interest in paying their poll taxes and becoming eligible to vote in the 1962 elections, which will determine key races for state representative, state senator and governor in the May 5 primary.

Milam Courts Stay Busy...

Two reports on court activities in the past year make it apparent that Milam's County and District Courts had more than average years.

Criminal cases in both courts totaled 114 alone. They ranged in convictions from murder to numerous theft and burglary cases.

Due process of law, for the guilty or innocent requires quick and fair hearings and court decisions. The records of both county and district courts, through annual reports by the district clerk and the county - district attorney show that justice is moving with order in Milam Courts. It shows that investigative procedures are thorough where complaints are filed.

The justice of peace courts, eight of them in Milam County, processed 1,200 cases in 1961. Besides city courts in Cameron and Rockdale, these are the first courts of law for minor offenses. They too have totaled 150 cases, with the majority in Cameron and Rockdale JP Courts.

It is a record that deserves Milam support and attention.

LITTLE RIVER PHILOSOPHER

Philosopher Claims Code Of Old West, TV Style, Needed In Today's Foreign Policy

Dear editar:

I got tired to working on a solution to the farm problem the other day and just to rest my mind shifted over to working on the problem of foreign relations.

This came about because I had just read that Castro reportedly is setting up some guided missile launching sites up in the mountains over there in Cuba and they're pointed at the United States only 90 miles away, which is just about point - blank with one of those things.

Now here's our problem: up to now, in international law, whatever that is, there has been nothing wrong in building guided missile launching sites. So long as Castro doesn't launch one of those missiles at us, we can't do anything. Our hands are tied. We have to sit around wondering if or when he's going to pull the trigger.

At this very point is where some heavy thinking needs to be applied, and I have come up with a new theory of international law. Well, it's not really new, it's based on the law of the West, which 150 million Americans who watch TV Westerns are familiar with.

This law says if a man starts to pull a gun on you and you beat him to the draw and shoot first, the United States Marshal's hands are tied. It was a clear case of self - defense and any Marshal or Sheriff who tried to charge you with murder would be laughed out of the West.

Now the fine point about this code is that anybody can carry a gun, it's only when he goes for it that another man is entitled to fire first if he can manage it.

This brings up my contribution to foreign policy. All the United States has to do is to decide what stage in launching a guided missile corresponds to the moment when a gunslinger makes a play for his gun. The code of the West doesn't say you have to wait til the other man fires. No sir. You have to wait only till he starts for his gun, then you can go for yours and shoot him even before he gets his out of his launching pad, I mean holster, if you're fast enough, and the law is satisfied.

Right now, not having any guided missle launching sites on this Johnson grass farm to study, I can't say exactly what point in the enterprise corresponds to the move toward a .45, but if some expert in the State Department will figure this out, Catro may not be as happy over his launching sites as he thought he'd be and it sure will make thinkgs more comfortable. What sort of a life could anybody have led in the old West if people were entitled to go around with their guns drawn, finger on the trigger, and pointed at somebody else? If you can't legitimately defend yourself before that point, you ain't got much change.

This is a point in Foreign Policy the experts ought to be working on a lot harder.

Yours faithfully

J. A.

Candidates Flood Capital City

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Assiciation

AUSTIN — Candidates flooded this capital city as the filing deadline arrived. Politicians came to town to pay filing fees for state offices at both the state democratic headquarters and the republican camp.

Thousand dollar fees were paid in many ways: One thousand one-dollar bills, one hundred two-dollar bills, and varried contributions from friends of the candidates.

A former athlete brought a handful of ex - football stars along, to show that he had a sporting chance.

There were very few surprises at the State Democratic Executive committee: Gubernatorial candidates John Connally Marshall Formby, Will Wilson and Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker had paid before the deadline; Don Yarborough was expected, and everyone knaw Gov. Price Daniel would show up after his TV announcement.

Austin Attorney Bob Looney arrived at the last minute to join Tom James, Tom Reavley, Waggoner Carr, W. T. McDonald and Les Procter in the attorney general's race.

Keith Wheatley, 27 - year old Stamford oil operator, decided to oppose Railroad Commissioner Ben Ramsey in the May primary.

Both Looney and Wheatley filed without paying, but plunked down their $1,000 fees by the Feb. 8 deadline.

Joe R. Pool, Dallas attorney, Charles H. Stevenson Jr. of Nueces County and rancher Phil Willis of Kaufman County, made the same sort of financial transaction as candidates for congressman - at - large.

Houston businessman Robert W. Hervey and Mitchell County District Judge Eldon Mahon forfeited their right to run for congressman-at-large when they failed to follow filing with payment of filing fees.

Indicative of the expected turnover in both House and Senate is the democratic line-up for lieutenant governor: Speaker of the House James A. Turman, Senators Preston Smith, Jarrard Secrest and Robert Baker, all are abandoning present posts to seek the state's second highest position. Gene Smith of Fort Worth is the only non - legislative candidate for lieutenant governor.

REPUBLICANS RALLY

"Rebirth of the republican party in Texas" has been widely discussed. It was quite evident when filing time was over that considerable progress had been made. If the party wasn't reborn; it certainly was revitalized.

Breckenridge oilman Jack Cox--former democratic candidate for governor who announced for the GOP months ago -- got two opponents at the countdown. One was Amarillo rancher - publisher Ralph Yarborough for the U. S. Senate in 1958. The other was Harry Diehl, Houston factory representative, who was one of the 71 who ran for Lyndon Johnson's senate seat last year.

Republican line - up for house and senate seats is imposing. Fourteen republicans are campaigning for 10 of the 31 senate seats. And 74 republicans have filled for 70 of the 150 representative offices. Two already are members of the House. They are George Korkmas of Texas City and Kenneth Kohler of Amarillo. They seek re - election to offices they won in recent special elections.

VALLEY FREEZE CREATES FOOD SHORTAGE

Agriculture workers "frozen" from jobs by the recent freeze in the Valley caused a stir of activity in the commodity distribution division of the State Department of Public Walfare.

Division Director W. M. Herndon has just returned from two trips to the Valley to talk to county commissioners in Cameron, Zavala, Willacy and Hidalgo counties. There, the need for emergency distribution of government surplus foods is desperate.

DPW is distributing food for 5,000 in Cameron County, 4,000 in Willacy County, and 2,500 in Zavala County. Also it is adding 20,000 people to the program at Hidalgo County, which provides food for 600 needy people on a regular basis.

Most commissioners look for the emergency to end within 30 days, when business in that area is expected to recover.

SALES TAX RULINGS KEEP COMING

Governor Daniel's announcement that he hopes to amend the sales tax structure probably caused groans in the Comptroller of Public Accounts' office, where they're constantly busy interpreting the two percent sales tax as it now stands.

Most recent interpretation involves advertising agencies which finance their operation on a 15 per cent commission basis, rather than by charges.

Comptroller ruled that the tax does not apply to intangible services and therefore excludes the commission from taxation.

But clients must pay tax on drawings, paintings, lettering and printed matter, and with the fantastic volume of this type of production involved in a campaign year, the state ought to net a fair - sized income from advertising agencies.

TEXAS CRIME ON UPSWING

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., Director of the Department of Public Safety, stated that major crime in Texas increased 2.2 percent in 1961 over 1960, with an estimated 203,285 offenses for the year.

Murder and homicide cases increased from 1,080 to 1,088; theft from 108,869 to 117,619; rape from 1,196 to 1,264; and aggravated assault from 12,128 to 12,166.

Garrison said this means that in Texas during 1961, "there was a murder every eight house, a rape ever seven hours, an aggravated assault every 43 minutes, a robbery every 10 minutes, a theft every four and one - half minutes."

Major Crime In Texas Increased 2.2 Percent In '61

AUSTIN — The Texas Department of Public Safety reported today that major crime in Texas increased 2.2 per cent in 1961 over 1960, with an estimated total of 203,285 offenses for the year compared to 198,956 in 1960.

Murder and homicide was up 0.7 per cent, rape increased 5.7 per cent, robbery decreased 16.5 per cent, burglary was down 6.7 per cent, aggravated assault increased 0.3 per cent, theft increased eight per cent and auto theft was down 0.8 per cent.

Murder and homicide was up from 1,080 to 1,088, rape was up from 1,196 to 1,264, robbary was down from 3,560 to 2,974, burglary was down from 56,976 to 53,-149, aggravated assault was up from 12,128 to 12,166, theft was up form 108,869 to 117,619 and auto theft was down from 15,147 to 15,025.

"The totals for 1961 mean that one major crime was committed in Texas every three minutes there was a murder every eight hours, a rape every seven hours, a burglary every 10 minutes, an aggravated assault every 43 minutes, a theft every four and one-half minutes and an auto theft every 35 minutes," Col. Homer Garrison Jr., DPS Director said.

"They also indicate approximately a 60 per cent increase in major crimes in our State since 1955 -- an increase which far outstrips the population increase during this period."

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

By Vern Sanford

A silver spoon glittered in the water some 50 feet out from the T-head of a pier ..... and about two feet below the surface. Due to the height of the pier and clearness of the Gulf water, the spoon could easily be seen.

Suddenly a slender silvery torpedo bolted up from the depths. Wham. It hit the spoon solid and headed out to sea, peeling off line from the spincast reel.

Holding the rod was a little lady from Oklahoma. You could tell at a glance that she was an angler, although it was her first taste of salt water fishing. She kept just the right tension on the drag and held the rod high enough to let the tip do the fighting.

The fish -- a Spanish mackerel of about three pounds -- was a real fighter. But she had him hooked solid

That fish was "meat in the pot" ... until she worked him up close to the pier. Without a long-handled gaff, or a net, to reach the fish, the little lady was forced to try to lift the fish out of the water and on top of the pier.

You know what happened. Yep-the fish made one final lunge and circled a pier piling. Sharp barnacles cut the nomofilament line like a knife.

PIER FISHING IS AN ART

Anyone can catch small fish from a pier, But when it comes to landing the large ones, there is an art and technique involved.

For pier fishing a long rod has a decided advantage over a short one. You can use the long rod to work the fish away from the pilings.

Furthermore, a long rod with a springy tip will cushion better against any sudden runs. It will also tire the fish quicker than a short, stout rod.

Pier fishing also calls for longer than usual leaders. With a long six or eight foot plastic coated wire leader there is less chance of the line itself being chafed on the barnacle encrusted pilings.

One thing for sure -- there's no reason whatsoever for "horsing a fish from a pier.

He still has plenty of fight left when you get him to the point of landing and chances are, enough strength to power under the pier and around the piling. So, in pier fishing, play the fish down while he's still well away. Then work him in when he starts showing his back or "bellies up."

It can be catastrophic to hook the big fish and then discover no gaff or landing net on the pier. But if the fish is thoroughly whipped, you might -- just might -- get him in without a net.

TIPS TO REMEMBER

Here's one way to do it. First, lean as far over the rail as possible. Second, point the rod tip straight down at the fish. Next, reel him up as far as possible. Then try to swing him onto the deck.

Usually this procedure will work -- with five or six pound fish.

Best method, however, is to slowly walk the length of the pier and lead the fish back into shallow water where you can get down on the bench. If you're night fishing, this is a big difficult too.

Anyone who fishes from a pier often, really should have a long-handled gaff or net. Better yet - a drop-net.

A drop-net with a three-foot diameter hoop and deep bag will suffice for just about anything except a tarpon. Attach a stout bridle to the hoop and tie the bridle to a sufficient length of rope.

When the fish is whipped down, drop the net overbaord. Let it sink below the depth of the fish. Work the fish in slowly ..... right over the net. Then haul the net in fast.

It's an easy operation that one man can perform. With a gaff hook it usually takes two people.

STUDY THE WATER FIRST

Where to fish from a pier troubles many anglers. Tendency of most fishermen is to hurry to the end of the T-head, then cast out as far as possible.

Unless you know there are fish working in the deep water, casting far out from the T-head is a waste of time.

Instead, try reading the water for fish signs.

If there are several lines of breakers from the end of the pier, give that water a try. As the waves curl over the break, they churn up the botton and free minute marine life.

It's in this wave break that, during the summer along the Gulf coast, great numbers of speckled trout are taken. And in the fall, these same breakers yield redfish.

If you have a calm day when there are no waves breaking, look for signs of bait fish. Odds are heavy that game fish will be working right under the schools of bait.

There are two reasons for fishing from the side of the pier where the current is running away from it. First, you need less weight to keep the bait out from the pier. Second, the current will work in your favor in keeping the fish from swimming under the pier and around the pilings.

But remember this. When you hook your fish, you'll have more tension on your line since both the fish and the current will be pulling against you.

While this may initially stack the odds against you, in the end it will work in your favor. We say this because when a fish tires he will, invariably, try to swim with the current.

That way you're assured the fish will be well clear of the pilings. Furthermore, the current will keep the fish from drifting under the pier when you seek to gaff or net him.

TO PRESERVE YOUR CATCH

Keeping your fish fresh and edible can be a problem for the pier angler.

A fish will spoil fast if allowed to lie on the deck in the hot sun. So, if you have to keep him on deck, cover him with a wet towsack. Or put him in the sack, tie a rope around the neck of the sack and lower the whole works into the water.

If you don't have a sack, bring along a stringer that's long enough to reach the water.

But -- whether you lower the fish in a sack or on a string don't allow it to sink to the bottom. There the crabs will mutilate your catch in short order.

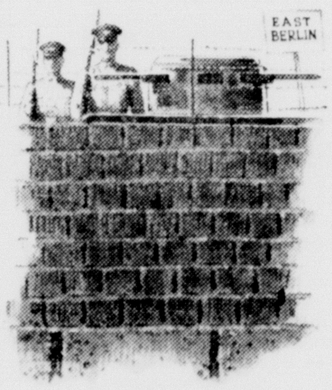
PHILIPPINES CELEBRATE FIFTEENTH ANNIVERSARY OF THEIR INDEPENDENCE



ARE HONOR AND INTEGRITY "OUT OF DATE"?

Americans believe:

That the plighted word commands respect; that agreements between men and men, and governments and governments should be honored, respected, and revered. Sanctions in our society inspire the sacredness of the bond of agreement. This is a cornerstone of society, for without agreement in the home, in national and international affairs, there can be no meaning in the American way of life.

Communists believe:

Agreements are meaningless if they do not serve the Communist purpose. Lenin said, "promises are like pie crusts — made to be broken," and, to achieve their purpose, he said, "It is necessary to use every ruse, cunning, unlawful method, evasion, and concealment of truth." Agreements or treaties are made to satisfy current situations and to be broken whenever needed to further Communist goals.

ETERNAL VIGILANCE IS THE PRICE OF LIBERTY

To renew and awaken interest in our precious heritage of Freedom, and its superiority over the Communist philosophy, these messages are being published by the Texas Power & Light Company, an investor-owned, tax-paying electric utility.

News About Milam Farmers, Their Interests, And Activities

Milam ASCS Report

By Milam County ASCS

Here's a message which will be of interest to all farmers who grow corn or grain sorghum. It's about the 1962 Feed Grain Program for these crops and about the necessity for farmers to sign up at the ASCS County Office if they want to take part.

We have mailed a leaflet about the program to all feed grain farmers. It's called "continue to do in '62 what you've begun in '61" and it contains the highlights of the 1962 feed grain program. If you haven't received your copy, you might ask for one at the County Office.

The signup under the program will extend through March 30 and is now underway. So, if you're interested, any of us in the office will be glad to give you all the facts.

You'd be wise to file your application to take part the next time you're near the ASCS County Office. Don't put it off and then maybe forget.

The 1962 feed grain program is similar to the 1961 program. It will call for diversion of at least 20 per cent of the farm's base acreage into an approved conservation use in order to qualify for special program payments and also for price support on the feed grain crops.

Hybrid Maize Test Results

By J. D. Moore
Milam County Agent

Hybrid Maize test results at Thorndale show the following yield and head smut results according to Experiment Station reports.

The following are the variety, the yield and the Head Smut rating.

1. Dekalb C44, 3450, 1.8; 2. Frontier, 400C 3200, 4.0; 3. Amak R-12, 3280, 3.5; 4. N. K. 210, 3250, 4.2; and 5. R. S. 610, 3210, 4.0.

Head smut continues to be a problem in maize production. The highest incidence of head smut occured in the tests near McGregor, Temple and Thorndale.

Combine 7078 had 26 per cent head smut in the McGregor test and 4 to 6 percent in the other tests run by the Experiment Stations. Ratings for head smut were made for each entry in each of the six tests reporting the disease.

In this rating system, hybrids with only a trace or no smut were given a rating of 1. Hybrids showing susceptibility were given a rating of 2, 3, 4 and 5, with the most susceptible hybrids or varieties receiving the highest rating.

Results of variety test showing yield, head smut rating, days to bloom, plant heighth and head exertion on all varieties tested last year are available at the county agents office.

COTTON REPORT

Trading in the spot markets slackened. Producer offerings were generally small in volume. Shipper buying was slower. Domestic mill and foreign interest was fairly good. Mild, clear weather prevailed generally.

Prices for Middling 1" cotton was quoted Thursday, February 8, at 33.50 cents in Dallas, 33.40 cents in Galveston, 33.25 cents in Houstin and 33.00 cents in Lubbock, unchanged from a week ago. On the corresponding date a year ago prices were 29.95 cents in Dallas, 29.90 cents in Galveston, 29.75 cents in Houston and 29.25 cents in Lubbock. The demand for the late ginnings has slackened and prices have eased off slightly. Shipper activity has slowed down and buying was confined to qualities to fill current commitments. The demand was best for the medium and lower grades of good character and Micronaire in the shorter staples. Free supplies were scarce and prices curtailed some trading. There was a small volume of trading between shippers Through February 2 there was 1,079,992 bales of the Texas crop and 22,227 bales of the Oklahoma crop remaining in the loan.

Producers throughout the Area have taken advantage of the spring weather generally prevailing to prepare land and seed beds. Skies were clear with mild to above normal temperatures most of the time. A cold front over the past weekend brought freezing temperatures to the northern sections. No appreciable amount of moisture was reported but most all sections could use a good general rain. In the Valley private sources estimated that around 7,000 acres of cotton may have been planted. Most producers, however, were waiting for soil temperatures to warm up. Long range weather forecast was for additional low temperatures this month which slowed planting.

New Testing Methods In Use

COLLEGE STATION — Two methods of testing for milk solids are now being used in nation - wide studies of milk composition, reports A. M. Meekma, extension dairy specialist. The tests, which were developed with the aid of dairy farmers' research funds, are being used at 35 state and federal experiment stations on a total of 13,750 cows of 5 breeds.

Field testing of the Watson lactometer, which was developed by at the University of Maryland with the aid of American Dairy Association grants.

Financial support for the Golding Plastic Beads test has been provided to Washington State University since the fall of 1955, says Meekma. This test has proved ample and practical for field use.

The USDA has found both of these tests to be as accurate for measuring milk solids as the Babcock test is for measuring butter at content.

Changes in consumer attitudes toward butterfat is what brought this increased attention to other nutrients in milk, says Meekma. He predicts the results of the present nation - wide studies will be used in guiding the breeding and selection of dairy cattle in the future. Solids testing may also become a basis for evaluating and pricing milk.

National FFA Week Cited For February 17 - 24

National Future Farmers of America Week has been designated Feb. 17 - 24.

The purpose of citing this week is to focus attention on the work done by the FFA of today, who will be the successful farmers of tomorrow.

The programs of FFA are designed to increase the students proficiency in farming and to give opportunity to study the sciences if animals, plants, agricultural marketing, farm business managements, farm mechanics and other subjects needed in the future.

National FFA Week is cited in February during the week of George Washington's birthday because of the first president's love of his farm, Mount Vernon.

Rep. Asks For $3 Million For Screwworm Work

DALLAS — Rep. George Mahon, (Dem. Texas), a ranking member of the House of Representatives Appropriations Committee, said that President Kennedy had requested that Congress provide $3 million dollars for eradicating screwworms from the Southwest.

This special supplemental appropriation would cover eradication work by the Department of Agriculture against this destructive pest for the next 18 months and would allow an immediate start on this product.

These special funds were requested at this time because unusually cold weather has killed most of the screwworm flies that normally overwinter in Southern Texas.

"I have no doubt but that Congress will take quick favorable action on this request," Congressman Mahon said. "We are highly pleased by the prompt action of the Chief Executive and the U. S. Department of Agriculture in moving to take advantage of the opportunity to eliminate a pest that costs the stockmen of the Southwest in the area of $100 million dollars every year," Congressman Mahon added.

The special appropriation and the prompt action is contingent on local sources in Texas and the Southwest providing matching resources.

"Stockmen, through the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation, are already well on their way to providing equal resources," C. G. Scruggs, President of the Foundation and editor of The Progressive Farmer of Dallas said. "A fund drive among stockmen in 230 Texas counties plus some parishes in Louisiana in anticipation of such need, is in high gear now," he said.

Scruggs estimates that stockmen will have voluntarily contributed more than a million dollars to the Foundation by the end of this week. "And the drive throughout the state is just beginning to reach its peak."

Reservists May Be Eligible For Draft Board Call

AUSTIN — Ready reservists of the armed forces who have enlisted under age 26 in the reserve or National Guard since October 4, and those who enlist in the future, are subject to immediate induction by draft boards if they participate unsatisfactorily in the reserves.

This is a provision of recently charged draft regulations, Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, pointed out Wednesday.

Draft boards do not act to induct the unsatisfactory reservist until he is certified in writing as unsatisfactory by the reserve of which he is a member.

Public law 87-378 passed in the fall of 1961, authorizes this action. Prior to passage of this law, only men who enlisted in the six-month program under age 18½ were liable for immediate induction upon certification for unsatisfactory service.

"Draft boards do not determine whether the reserve service is unsatisfactory," Col. Schwartz emphasized. "That is a function of the armed forces reserve."

When unsatisfactory reservists are inducted, they are inducted into the branch of the armed forces of which their reserve component is a part, he said.
